US Census: Measuring America

Robert M. Groves
Census Director

Nominated by President Barack Obama and confirmed by the Senate, Robert M. Groves began his tenure as Census director on July 15, 2009. Groves had been a professor at the University of Michigan and director of its Survey Research Center, as well as research professor at the Joint Program in Survey Methodology at the University of Maryland. He was the Census Bureau's Associate Director for Statistical Design, Methodology and Standards from 1990-1992, on loan from the University of Michigan.

Friday, February 18, 2011, 1:30-3:00pm
G10 Biotech, Cornell University

Reception 3:00-4:00pm, Biotech Atrium
Reception sponsored by Cornell Population Program